MIDWEST LEAK MAGAZINE AND NAP OR NOTHING

Letter FROM THE EDITOR

To the people that make it all possible,

Thank you for staying connected. It means the world to me every time you pick up a copy of Midwest Leak Magazine. You keep the vision going and growing! Welcome to the full length version which supplements the free print copy you may have received while out moving around. We are happy to have you here where we get to show you a little bit more than a sample of why the Midwest is Best!

Indianapolis is the host to the 2024 All Star Game and we couldn't be more excited to share a taste of our home with the world. I've enlisted some help to shed some light on their faves. Find out straight from the natives the gems and jewels that are shining or hidden in our hometown. From restaurant order suggestions to trustworthy barber referrals, we have it all here for you.

Our ever evolving list of events and celebrity appearances lives on our website so visit there to stay the most updated. Tap in here to see more, but for the best experience of the things we just couldn't fit here...visit our website and follow our social media! Everything you love from us lives here and is constantly updating. More interviews, more insight, more pages, more videos, more life!

Love y'all!
xoxo Le'Deana

Tell us a little bit about your longevity in the game, your evolution from where you started to what you have going on now. I started in '92. I was trying to be a rapper and I realized I sucked. Most people don't realize that.

Who told you that you sucked? Myself! I was getting paid. We was doing paid shows. I was getting money from doing it, but I just know I wasn't as good as my peers. I really wasn't doing it because I wanted to rap. I was doing it because that's what everybody in the hood was doing. I was hustling.

What hood is that? Where are you from? I'm from Georgia. I've lived in all parts of Georgia. I was born in Macon, GA. I spent a little time in Forsyth, GA. Then, I wind up landing in Atlanta. It was the thing that everybody around me was doing. So, I decided to do it. I was really into the streets. The streets was my first love. I started rapping just to be cool, I guess. In doing it, I seen who really made the money because I was really after the money. I started seeing the executives was the ones who made the money. I quickly studied this guy, LeRoy McMath, at Power Records and watched him.

How did you make that transition from artist to executive? I just fell back and LeRoy started inviting me to the office a lot more. He was getting a lot of phone calls from artists. He just had a lot going on. So, they would pass me the list to return phone calls. Mind you, I'm a kid doing all of this from a pay phone. So, I'm putting a dime in the phone every day, making a phone call. People was able to call me back. We had one pay phone in the apartment complex. I used that pay phone as my office.

How did you get into management? I didn't know what it was called from the beginning. I just know I got 10% for booking the shows, 20% for being the manager. I just did everything. At the time, I was still hype man. So, I was getting about 40% of the money because I was doing three jobs. Even though, I was doing all of this stuff I became a marketing guy first because of my - I don't like to glorify this but - I knew how to sell stuff in the streets. So, I used that same formula to the music business. It worked for me.

They say that the thing that makes or breaks an artist is their team. So, you integrated yourself into different parts of being their team, right? I started just being around people. You're in Atlanta, so, everybody is popular. So, they're like 'hey man! I heard you did this with such and such'. Yeah, I did it. "Can you do that for me?" My services just started spreading from word of mouth. I was like okay if he charge 20%, I'll do it for 10%. It was free money and I was hungry! I was a lot hungrier than a lot of people at that time. I knew I was the ultimate hustle. I could hustle anybody. It turned into word of mouth.

How do you get clients to have a full understanding for the need of the kind of services you provide? I'm fortunate enough to be in a space to where I don't have to shop for clients. It's either my way or I don't need to do it.

How much is a realistic budget for an independent artist just trying to create something? 10 is a good start, but you're going to have to have 3 or 4 more tens after that. I'd just advise anybody who don't have $2-5,000 to spend their money on Facebook and Instagram ads.

Hitmaker Music Group - Can you tell me the function of that? Me and my partner, Tony - We were always doing marketing, managing, and promoting of the people. We seen other people getting rich, but we were getting the short end of the stick. So, we decided to do our own label and just put out records. The first few didn't do too good. Then over time, we started getting successful ones. We have our own distribution. We don't go through major distribution. We found the "FNF" with HitKidd and Glorilla. That went platinum. Then, he came with the "Shabooya" record that I believe is almost gold now. We had some writing credits with Jack Harlow that was nominated for a Grammy. YG Marley right now, which Lauryn Hill's son and Bob Marley's grandson. In 8 weeks total, this song will be gold independently, which is kind of unheard of. We're doing major numbers an accolades without a major label.

You've seen a lot, done a lot. What's next on the bucket list? I just said last night - I took my little sister, who's a school teacher, to the Grammy's for the first time. She's from Jackson, GA. It's a small town, may be 5,000 people. Never in her life had she thought she would see the Grammy's. So, she's proud of her big brother. She asked what's next? I said probably the Oscar's and the Emmy's. I got awards everywhere else. I want those. I always dreamed bigger than everybody even as a kid. Even my artists, they get mad at me. When they tell me their dreams, it's mediocre. You can work at Burger King to get that. If your dreams are little, you don't want shit out of life. My goal is to buy 28 acres to build my wife, kids, and grandkids their own houses on that property, but I didn't like the location. I never dreamed small. I never said when I get a million dollars I'm going to be rich because a million dollars ain't no money. People don't realize that until you get some money. People be like he got a 100 million dollars, he broke. Once you get into that situation, it becomes a problem and you have to keep making money to maintain the lifestyle. You got to want to be a producer. You have to do a Tyler Perry deal. Tyler Perry always thought bigger than an actor. That's why Tyler Perry, Spike Lee, Robert Townsend, and all of them people are who they are. Until you start getting your own executive producer credits and starting your own studio because it's different. You get the whole budget. I think like those guys.
